Young Naples equestrians ride to strong showing in Kentucky

SPECIAL TO FLORIDA WEEKLY

Bobbin Hollow Equestrian Center's new middle school show team debuted at the Interscholastic Equestrian Association's Saddle Seat Kick Off show earlier this month at Morehead State University in Kentucky.

A 50-year Naples tradition, BHEC serves more than 100 riding students, from pre-schoolers to senior citizens. Riders choose from English disciplines including hunt seat, dressage, saddle seat and driving. Many BHEC students compete at elite levels and bring home championships from world, national and regional horse shows.

Bobbin Hollow lead instructor Lark René Henry is the official Saddle Seat division coordinator for the Interscholastic Equestrian Association. In 2010, the center partnered with the United States Equestrian Federation's high school equestrian athlete program in an effort to coordinate and encourage recognition of athletic accomplishments in equestrian sports. Several high school students on the BHEC show team have received or are working toward varsity letters from the USEF.

The new IEA Saddle Seat shows allow a new generation of young riders to begin their competitive career and earn points in a special level of sanctioned shows.
